The Seventh Cavalry.

TOPEKA, KAN., July 31, 1885. Comrades of the Secenth Kansas Cavalry: On the 29th day of September, 1865, our reg-ment was mustered out of service. On the 2th day of September, 1885, will be the commencement of a soldier's re-union at Topeks a sting three days. In pursuance to the expressed desire of and promise to the mem-bers present at the re-union at Leavenwo, th, in 1886, I most earnestly request that every survivor of the old Seventh assemble at Topeka, on the twentieth anniversary of our suster out, for the purpose of perfecting a regimental organization. Such organization will, I am sure, be of mutual benefit to the members, and can be made to contribute largely to the collection of facts for the preservation of the eventful history of the regiment. I would suggest that every mem-ber who kept adiary during his service, bring the same with him, as therein may be contained not only dates, etc., for history, but a record of facts almost invaluable to our unfortunate comrades who are applicants for pensions. That our roster may be as full and complete as possible, it is requested that every member of the regiment send at once his name, post-office address, naming his company, and the same information concern-ing any other member whose present loca-

THE report from the State Board of Agand Emperor Francis Joseph would meet in riculture is that the wheat crop is all gataered and much of it threshed. The quality is excellent, but the yield very light-scarcely over one-third of a crop-a shortage of the annual product for five years of 20,217,75$ case of war between England and Russia. bushels. The Hessian fly has done the greatest damage and a new pest has appeared-the "wheat stalk Isosoma." These. with the ravages of the web-worm in the corn, give to Kansas farming a less roseate coloring than formerly. The lesson drawn from the appearance of the Hessian fly is, now that wheat sowing will soon commence, to stop sowing wheat after wheat. Sow grass and clover. Kill all volunteer wheat and don't sow wheat until September 25. Stop sowing wheat on corn land only as land is clean and corn cut off. The Hessian fly is a formidable obstacle to successful wheat culture, says the report, an obstacle which can not be overlooked, but must be laboriously overcome. The invasion of Kansas by this insect is not a mere temporary inroad like that of the Rocky Mountain locust; disastrous at the time, but soon over. The Hessian fly has evidently come to stay and will render wheat culture an unprofitable undertaking if the old methods are not changed. If however, the old methods are modified and proper precautions are taken, Kansas Mayor Grace and President Sanger, of the Naval Bureau, Construction and Steam Enmay yet regain and maintain her proud position at the head of the great wheat producing States of America. Its adoption grew out of the ease with which it can be used, skilled labor not being required for its application, and besides, though not cheaper in itself, it could be applied to a cheaper quality of tin plate, of which the canswere then made. It was not until it was used for this purpose that cases of poisoning from the use of canned fruitsand vegetables were known, although its effects as a poison in foreign countries, particularly in Germany, England and France, were a subject of medical and chemical investigation long ago. Atoms of its malady were similar to those attending all the cases of poisoning by freely, applying it with a large brush, working so rapidly as to cap ten cans aminute, and by the very reason of the States authorities yesterday made an im- employed admitting a greater or less-
